Product Description

Product Description:

BERNET Circular Gear Oil Pump for Fuel Dispenser

The ground overflow container is used to collect the oil leakage generated by the tanker when unloading the oil, the top cover is made of carbon steel, the shell is strong and tough, the shell is installed in the gravel layer, which can effectively prevent the container from leaking due to external influences, and the unique and reasonable structural design can withstand the tanker driving on it. There is a release valve inside, which allows the oil in the container to return to the underground storage tank by pulling the release valve.
